

ARBUCKLE WILL BE PERMITTED TO TAKE STAND

Film Comedian Believes He Can Convince Jury of Innocence.

San Francisco, Nov. 24.—Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, on trial for manslaughter, wants to take the stand in his own defense. He believes his story would clinch in the minds of the jury and the public his innocence. And, as matters stand he will be permitted to take the stand in his own defense, probably as the last witness. But this decision of his counsel is subject to change. It will be Gavin McNab, his veteran trial attorney who will say the last word.

"I'll make the decision finally when the moment arrives," McNab said today as he worked with his big staff of assistants, utilizing the holiday to check up the larger number of witnesses remaining on the defense list.

Many of these defense witnesses will be eliminated. The defense believes that they have now established a "reasonable doubt" in the minds of the jury but they want to go further, they say, and absolutely clinch the case.

Arbuckle's story, if he takes the stand, will be a simple one. By way of preparation for it, the defense expects to demonstrate "by the clock" that Arbuckle was in room 1219 of his hotel alone with Virginia Rapps only 10 minutes instead of an hour as claimed by the state. The film comedian will relate, noticing Miss Rapps had been seized with nausea, he accompanied her to the room and there led her to a bed and held her head and attempted to soothe her. Failing she became hysterical and it was at this point he opened the door in order that others present might render her assistance. He will deny that his relations with the girl were other than those of a gentleman.

The chief reason impelling counsel for Arbuckle to a decision to have him take the stand is the contention that his failure to do so will provide District Attorney Matthew Brady with a powerful argument to the jury in the final summing up of the case.

TROUBLE LIES AHEAD OF ARMS CONFERENCE

Four General Proposals of Elihu Root For Compromise Between Japan and China Form Gathering Point for Possible Storm.

Washington, Nov. 24.—While the quiet of an American Thanksgiving hung today over the activities of the armament conference, there were unmistakable evidences of trouble that lies immediately ahead.

The four general proposals for consideration of Chinese problems advanced by Elihu Root as a compromise between the divergent views of Japanese and Chinese, form the gathering point for the storm that is expected to accompany the efforts of the diplomats to settle specific Chinese questions.

The proposals are so phrased that they are susceptible to many interpretations. One diplomat described them as "so broad that a horse and wagon can be driven through any one of them." The British, French,

He is the first accredited representative of his country since Count van Bernstorff left in April 1917. The photo shows the Baron getting his first view of the "Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave."

Japanese and Chinese all have different views on how the Root principles are to be applied to specific points.

The British interpretation as outlined by a spokesman for the British delegation is that in accepting the proposals China also accepted, in effect, the status quo in China.

The proposal pledging the powers to assist China to rehabilitate herself financially and economically is interpreted by the British as meaning that the powers are to co-operate in forming a sort of international control over Chinese railroads. They also put forth the suggestion that China's acceptance of the four principles involves also her acceptance of the consortium idea under which the powers will underwrite a gigantic loan to China.

The Chinese viewpoint is directly opposite. They contend that China shall not be "internationalized" and they interpret the Root proposals as meaning that China is to be restored to complete administrative integrity and economic independence as soon as possible.

The sharp conflict in interpretation already has led to verbal tiffs behind the closed doors of the Pan-American building and it is expected that there will be more of them tomorrow when the committee resumes its secret sessions.

SUBJECT OF FURTHER RATE REDUCTIONS TO BE CONSIDERED

Interstate Commerce Commission Will Seek Guidance.

Washington, Nov. 24.—A general invitation to determine whether any further reductions in railroad rates could be required was ordered yesterday by the interstate commerce commission.

In its announcement the commission recalled that it had acted recently in two proceedings looking to general reduction in rates, one on live stock in the Western district, upon which reductions became effective in September, and the other on hay and grain in the same district, effective Dec. 27.

"Meantime," the commission said "petitions have been filed by representatives of various interests, asking the institution of investigations more or less general in scope with a view to effecting reductions in rates in various descriptions of traffic and the carriers have indicated their intention to effect immediate reductions of 10 per cent in all districts on designated products of the farm and ranch."

"All petitions have received careful consideration but it has seemed to the commission that its investigation should not be confined to any particular descriptions of traffic and should be distinct from and without prejudice to proceedings on complaints already filed or hereafter to be filed. The order now issued is intended to elicit whatever information may be lacking as a guide for the commission in its further actions, and is along lines under consideration by the commission for some time past."

ADVOCATE BRANCH LIBRARIES IN OHIO

Columbus, Nov. 24.—Employment of an organizer whose duty it will be to establish branches of the State Library board by Director of Education Riegel, chairman, he said yesterday in connection with issuing a call for a meeting of the board for Monday.

Riegel said the institution should be a state library as well as a Columbus library. While there is no salary appropriation for an organizer, he said, the board can drop one of the assistant librarians and make an organizer out of him.

Also the stock of books needs replenishing and being brought up to date, Riegel added.

Appointment of a librarian may be discussed, but probably no action taken in it at the first meeting, Riegel indicated. It is understood a Republican will be named soon to succeed J. H. Newman, Democrat.

SHOOT TO KILL ORDER OF HAYS WORRIES 'BUMS'

"King of Tramps" Says It Will Be Cold Winter for Hoboes.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Dr. Ben L. Reitman, "king of tramps," in an interview today predicted that Postmaster General Will Hays' "shoot to kill" mail bandit order will land an army of bums in the hoboegow this winter, if, indeed, it does not send many of them to the hospital.

"The bum really has nothing to be thankful for,"

With contracted brow, Dr. Reitman who has "ridden the rods" at least 200,000 miles, explained with sympathetic emphasis that if the hobo can't ride and won't walk he has got to go to jail and it is against the innate sensibilities of the average tramp to take what the doctor refers to as the "shoe makers dummy."

And if he takes a chance and flips a freight or rides a blind baggage, it simply means flowers with the devil dogs on the job.

"Frankly, I don't know what the hobo will do now," Reitman said gloomily. "Mr. Hays has created a perplexing problem in the hobo world."

"In America tramping on trains is traditional. It isn't done in any other country but it has been a custom here for so long I'm afraid it will be no easy matter to stop it."

"Thousands of men—absolutely harmless fellows—are bumming right now. Most of them are working men looking for a job, men with reasonable occupations. They do top freights and ride mail trains. With between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 men out of work in this country, there is more bumming today than in years."

"It's not right to shoot them down. They're not bandits. Really, the car bandit is a rarity. Of every 25,000 men who ride on trains without paying fare approximately one is a train bandit. The hobo looks suspicious, hanging around water tanks ready to flip on, or even lying under the mail bags but they are harmless. Many of them are ex-soldiers."

DECLARES FARMERS NEED HELP ALONG ECONOMIC LINES

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace Points Out Present Needs.

Atlanta, Nov. 24.—Farmers' troubles throughout the United States are economical and not political and will continue that way until the farm is conducted on purely business lines, Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, yesterday declared before the third annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Secretary Wallace said he believed the great work the department of agriculture should do now to help the farmer was not along production lines but along economic lines. He said the department should help the farmer follow his crop until it reached the consumer and the farmer should study all angles of the agricultural business.

Discussing the war finance corporation wanted to lend its money the slowness of banks throughout the country to realize that the cornment to the producers.

where it would do the most good hindered its work considerably. He said the corporation was making loans at the rate of $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 a day.

Opposition to government fixing of prices on farm commodities was expressed by Secretary Wallace. He said such a procedure only tended to encourage greater production, which in the end would be detrimental to the producers.

Mrs. Isetta Brown, of Kingwood, W. Va., another speaker told of the part women were to play in farm bureau activities in the future. Reports from various state federations also were heard.

The West Virginia, one of the greatest battleships ever designed for the American Navy, is shown above as she was sliding down the ways at Newport News. She has an almost impenetrable armor and is fitted to carry eight 16-inch rifles. The American naval reduction plan as presented to the Armament Conference provided for scrapping the West Virginia. If the American plan is agreed to the dreadnought, today about 65 per cent complete, will never be finished and never plow the seas bearing the Stars and Stripes. Important Measures Left Over For Congress Dec. 5

Extraordinary Session Which Ended, Wednesday, Leaves To Regular Meeting Foreign Debt Issue, Railroad Refunding Bill and Tariff Measure

Washington, Nov. 24.—The end yesterday of the extraordinary session of congress, which president Harding called eight months ago, will leave to the regular session, beginning Dec. 5, a number of important measures whose prompt enactment the president repeatedly, but vainly urged.

They include (1) the foreign debt refunding bill; (2) the railroad debt refunding bill and (3) the permanent tariff bill.

Final disposition of the Ford-Newberry election contest will also go over until the regular sessions probably until January.

Under an unanimous consent agreement, the senate met at 10 o'clock this morning to conclude final consideration of the much disputed revenue revision bill, which must be voted on not later than 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Although a general exodus of senators and representatives will begin tonight, members of the senate finance and interstate commerce committees intend to remain on the job, the first to continue tariff hearings, the latter to hear more testimony regarding railroad conditions.

Senators Lodge of Massachusetts and Underwood of Alabama, Republican and Democratic leaders respectively of the senate, will be forced to stay on as members of the American delegation to the conference on armament limitation and far eastern questions.

Several senators, including Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, also plan to tarry at the capital as "unofficial observers" of the conference. They state that they feel that the conference will be watching at close range.

The extraordinary session of congress which came to a close yesterday opened on April 11.

The session—the first of the sixty seventh congress—was called by President Harding to enact a new tariff law and revise the internal revenue laws.

Congress stood recessed from August 24 to Sept. 21 and the house did not meet for the transaction of business until Oct. 3.

During the session (slightly more than seven months) 136 bills and resolutions have been considered by both houses and enacted into law. Among the more important and outstanding measures which have become laws during the session are:

Revenue act of 1921, budget act, emergency tariff act, resolution of peace with central powers, veteran bureau act, immigration restriction act, Volstead anti-beer act, the $25,000,000 farm loan act, 1922 naval appropriation act, 1922 army appropriation act, grain futures act, packer control act, war finances agricultural loan act, federal highway act, maternity act, legislation and appropriations for the shipping board, Edge export act, cable control act.

The Fordney tariff bill has passed the house and is pending in the senate. It will go over until the next regular session.

FRENCH PREMIER GETS OVATION ON DEPARTURE

Briand Expresses Appreciation of Treatment In America.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The premier of France left Washington today amid the warm demonstrations of his popularity that have followed him throughout his visit. An enthusiastic crowd was waiting to see him at the Union station and M. Briand's face was wreathed in smiles.

He shook hands with every correspondent and expressed his pleasure at the way the newspapers had treated him.

"I had the impression," he said, "that the press of this country was ferocious—but you have been most kind. I appreciate it. I appreciate it more because I am one of the gang myself—oh, but really one of the gang. In my young days I used to have to report dog fights myself and if I could not find a fight I invented it."

Briand's last word to the press was that battleships are not built for sardine fishing and as long as there are capital ships for the big nations there must be submarines for the smaller ones.

"The very existence of capital ships," he continued, "is symbolic. They are built for aggressive warfare and to keep them means that aggressive warfare will still exist. Submarines and cruisers are obviously for defensive purposes."

It was called to M. Briand's attention that his attitude with regard to this question did not seem popular with the British press which attributed an ulterior motive to France's opposition to the British program.

"Ah," said the premier, "but when the British asked for 500,000 tons of capital ships I did not try to see in it a menace to France."

"We do not wish to give up the submarine. We have disarmed all that we can. Our land disarmament will be greater than the naval disarmament which has been proposed. The naval disarmament will be 39 percent of the present forces. France has reduced her land forces already 33 percent. When the plans pending are put through it will be 55 percent."

THINKS OFFER TO GOVERNMENT FOR PLANT IS LIBERAL

Edison To Aid Auto Manufacturer In Convincing Officials.

Detroit, Nov. 24.—Henry Ford and Thomas E. Edison, during their forthcoming inspection tour of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., project, hope to convince the United States government that Mr. Ford's offer for the nitrate and water power project is liberal, it was announced at Mr. Ford's offices at Dearborn yesterday to the Associated Press.

The information followed word from Washington that the government would ask Mr. Ford to make certain modifications in his proposals, believed to involve an increase by the automobile manufacturer in the amount of money he was willing to allot for completing constructions work on the dams at Muscle Shoals.

Mr. Edison will come to Detroit early next week, it was announced, and soon afterward he and Mr. Ford will go to Alabama for their inspection, accompanied by several engineers and other experts on the Ford Motor Co. staff.

When the tour has been completed the data obtained will be whined into shape for presentation to Secretary of War Weeks. An effort will be made to prove conclusively that the government's figures are too high it was stated.

Mr. Ford is known to believe that Muscle Shoals may be made to produce 1,000,000 horse power, and under the Ford plan this power could be made to produce steady employment, directly and indirectly for 1,000,000 men. If he obtains the project he expects to convert it into one of the greatest enterprises in the United States within the next six or seven years, it was said. About that length of time would be required to bring the project to full development, according to information at Mr. Ford's office.

CLEVELAND MAN HELD ON CHARGE

Cleveland, Nov. 24.—Isaac Miller, local jeweler, was arrested yesterday, charged with receiving $12,000 of stolen diamonds, said to be part of loot valued at $18,000 which was obtained in the robbery of a jewelry salesman in Chicago last September. According to the police, the salesman, Jacob Ahrens, of Chicago, identified $1,000 worth of jewelry recovered from Miller on a search warrant. Miller said he had disposed of the remainder, which he said he purchased on Oct. 8, and did not know it was stolen property.

The Spirit OF Thanksgiving

THANKSGIVING DAY appeals uniquely this year to every American. We can approximate more nearly the spirit of the day as its history is so intimately involved in the recent celebrations of the 300th Anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims. The spirit of our National Thanksgiving Day is a survival of the Pilgrim spirit in America. That spirit which combined in a rare formula, the practical elements of a full life, home, community or nation, and God. The spirit which was manifested at the first Thanksgiving Day was a survival of the Harvest Feasts of other generations in the evolving of man. The contribution of the Pilgrim to the harvest idea, was that he turned from a bountiful nature to a giving humanity, and from a giving humanity to a bountiful God, in appreciation.

The spirit of Thanksgiving is more than a gastronomical anticipation or satisfaction. It is something more than a nation-wide football climax. It is something more than a box of shells and a hunting trip. It is more than bursting barns. It is something more than a late awakening and a dutiful or perfunctory attendance upon a Union Service. It is a heart attitude, which, directed by a seeing eye, notes with discretion, nature's giving on every side; seest the constancy of loved ones about the home; contemplates a nation led by a kind providence; then turns to the great force and personality behind it all GOD. It is a bursting heart turning to the Giver of every gift.

It takes thought to be thankful. Indeed the very word "thankful" is derived from the Anglo Saxon word "thinkful." So that though the year may have had its losses and though the heart may have languid grown; though the monetary compensations have not been so great; though everything has not turned out as we desired it, yet with the true Pilgrim Thanksgiving spirit we thankfully thoughtfully see His mercies ever new. And our Day in a true spirit becomes a holy day of happy Thanksgiving.

EDISON OPPOSED TO SEEKING TRADE IN CHINA AT MOUTH OF CANNON

By ALLEN L. BENSON
Orange, N. J., Nov. 24.—Thomas A. Edison is opposed "to seeking trade in China at the cannon's mouth," he told me so, in these words, in his laboratory.

"If we cannot get business in China in competition with the rest of the world," he said, "we should get out. Every nation that is in possession of Chinese territory or of 'spheres of influence' in China should also get out. China should be left alone. Other nations should help her with money and credits and

Disarmament Conference in History Class

In senior history classes Friday, all lessons were forgotten for the most modern historical event, the Disarmament Conference. A real peace meeting was held, each country that is represented in Washington having their respective delegates. Before the meeting opened, short talks were given on the Chinese situation, the East question, and the description of the building in which the conference is being held. President Harding opened the meeting, later turning the chair over to Hughes. The speeches were delivered with dignity and eloquence and the affair could have been no more formal even in the real conference.

Instead of having current events each day, Mrs. Nybladh thought it would be more interesting to save all important daily events and devote one whole period a week to them. Friday was selected and each period on that day will review all that takes place during the previous week in the conference.

Shine Sophie Shine!
Again the brilliant Sophomores shined! While everyone else is toiling laboriously over a stack of books the Sophomores just haul in the E's. Robert Owens and Henrietta Monroe of whom X. H. S. is very proud succeeded in pulling straight E's in every subject. Some record for this year when even G's count so much.

Turkey Day is here at last cried everyone as the bell rang for dismissal. For dear people this has been a nerve racking week at school with every teacher giving tests and asking you to please work a vacation more. But now we are free for four whole days with not a book in sight. Oh! What a glorious feeling.

The girls' chorus of Central High is planning to give a Chinese Operetta, "The Feast of the Little Lanterns," which under the able direction of Miss Harriet McCarty is rapidly taking form. Individual parts were given out last Thursday and the girls are patiently practicing twice a week on the pretty little play.

The class of '24 is advancing forward. In their first class meeting which was recently held, Pauline Sutton was elected president, (hurray for woman suffrage), Dale Washburn, vice president, Margaret Little, secretary and Tom Conklin treasurer. They are already making plans for a grand Junior Reception. Mr. Penry talked to them about ways and means of earning money and the goal for this year is $150.

The Seniors have set the date for their Hard Times Party on December 2nd, and all the student body is invited. As yet the place has not been decided upon but the committee is working hard making plans for a big time.

Armistice Assembly

November 11, 1919, the date that will ring down the ages of time was observed for the second time in Central High School. The assembly was opened by Mr. Penry with appropriate remarks. He spoke of the solemnity of the occasion of the unknown soldier and the great effort of the Armistice on world history.

Dr. B. R. McClellan, who did a great work as a surgeon during the war, was introduced to the student body and gave a most stirring and interesting address. The patriotism and enthusiasm of the school was awakened by Dr. McClellan's talk. All were more and more impressed by the loyalty and sacrifice of the boys "Over There" and filled with a great longing for peace to reign forever.

At the close of the meeting every head was bowed, everyone breathed a silent prayer for our country, world peace and the souls of our boys who fell in France.

If desired, advice, but there should be no question of China's right to exercise full sovereignty over her own territory.

"If I were running Japan I would not more touch Chinese territory than I would touch a cobra. Japan, more than any nation in the world, should want to see China intact and independent. China is a vast market at the doorstep of Japan. Japan is better situated to supply this market than any other country."

"This is because she does not have to pay ocean freight rates over long distances. She has everything to gain by keeping out of China herself and urging every other nation to keep out, because she needs only an even chance to beat most of her competitors. If Japan can buy our cotton, make it into cloth and sell it for less than we can put cotton cloth into China, Japan should get the trade."

"Japan should strive to be the England of the far east—a great manufacturing nation prospering on foreign commerce. If she needs more land for her people to live on let her buy it from Russia. Russia had more land than she needs or can use and buying land is a cheaper way to get it than going to war."

Mr. Edison is of the opinion that the next war will be a good thing to keep out of. He spoke of the great progress that has been made since the hostilities in Europe ceased, in the manufacture of poison gas.

"Could you kill everybody in a great city in five minutes?" I asked. "I think I could," he replied. "I could, at any rate, after I made a few more experiments."

"Future wars," he continued, "are going to be waged almost exclusively with airplanes, submarines and gas. Battleships will not count for much. Guns are very spectacular instruments for killing—they make a great noise and explosive shells blow great holes in the earth—but guns do not carry destruction over a broad area."

"A bursting shell kills only those who are within a few feet of it. A single charge of gas as chemists now know how to make is sufficient to kill every man, woman and child in an area equivalent to five or six city blocks."

"That is why I say it would not be difficult to send a flock of airplanes over a city and kill every inhabitant within five minutes without breaking a pane of glass. All that is necessary is to make a gas that is very poisonous and very heavy. Heavy gas settles on the earth so that no one in the vicinity can escape it."

At this point I recalled a remark that I heard attributed to Mr. Edison ten years ago, to the effect that if the United States ever got into a tight pinch he would put the government in possession of a destructive agency so terrible that nothing short of impending national disaster could cause him to disclose it. I asked him if he had been correctly quoted. He replied in the affirmative. I asked him if the weapon he had in mind was gas. The only answer I received was a broad smile and a gesture that indicated that the subject was one on which he could not say a word.

Everything Else Had Failed

Noroton Heights, Conn.—"I am a carpenter, and got all run down and contracted a chronic cough, so I could hardly keep about my work. It seemed as though I had tried all kinds of medicines without help, but one day I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it. Before I had taken half a bottle I felt better and after taking six bottles found I had regained my normal weight and never felt better in my life."—R. J. Moore, Noroton Heights, Conn.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the curative elements of cod liver oil in a highly concentrated form together with Iron and Beef Peptones which for centuries have been without a peer for such conditions. Price $1.00 a bottle, guaranteed.

STOLEN AUTOMOBILE RECOVERED AFTER CHASE BY POLICE

The Oldsmobile touring car belonging to Roy Ary, of the Ary Motor Sales Company, which was stolen from West Second street Tuesday evening, has been recovered by Dayton police according to a report made to Chief of Police Graham.

Members of the auto recovery bureau of the Dayton police department recovered the stolen car at Beavertown after two men who had been driving it, abandoned the car and escaped. Mr. Ary was notified to go to Dayton Thursday, to obtain the automobile, which is said to need minor repairs before it can be used again.

Dayton police received a report that the car, occupied by two men, was being driven into Dayton through Carromonte. Members of the auto recovery bureau in a Ford got on the trail of the car and chased it across Dayton and out to Beavertown. The Ford was unable to keep up with the big car and therefore the two men who had been occupying the stolen machine were able to forge ahead and make their escape before the police came upon the abandoned car.

WEATHERMAN SPOILS THANKSGIVING DAY

The weather man stepped in and completely ruined another Thanksgiving Day early Thursday morning.

Crowds of people coming or going to spend the day with friends or relatives, splashed through the heaviest rain of the fall season all morning.

The rain began with a thunder and lightning storm of unusual severity for this time of the year, shortly before three o'clock Thursday morning. The first bolt of lightning cut off all electrical service and every street light in the city went out.

Later the circuit was repaired and the lights came on. The heavy rainfall continued practically all day, however, abating slightly only at intervals.

The document was executed April 17, 1914, and disposes of the widow's estate, as her interest in her husband's property ended with her death. The value of the estate is estimated at $150,000 of which $50,000 is real estate. No mention is made in the will of the children of the son, Dan R. Hanna, who died shortly before his mother. The son had been named as coexecutor of the will with Frank E. Brown described as confidential agent.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS RATHER GLOOMY

The heavy rainfall of Thursday morning rendered prospects for the football game between the American Legion team of this city and the North Dayton Merchants very bad. When the rainfall continued with unabated fury during the morning, the management of the Legion decided that a game would be impossible and the question of a cancellation was given consideration. At the last minute, however, it was announced the game would be played mud or no mud.

The contest is looked forward to as one of the meatiest features of the Thanksgiving afternoon amusement program and will start at 2:30 o'clock at Gatch field.

The boy's skull was crushed. The driver of the truck did not know the boy had been killed, but when questioned later recalled that the truck had bumped at that point, but thought nothing of it. He was absolved from blame.

HARDING IS CONFIDENT OF ARMS VICTORY WITH HUGHES ON FIRING LINE.

The field marshal of the American Conference forces, President Harding, has left the actual operations in the Conference arena in the hands of his field commander, Secretary Hughes. In the meantime the President is following the policy of "No interference with the man on the job."

President Harding approved the limitation program, item by item, as the program eventually was submitted to him. But he did not draw it up.

All the advance phases of the Conference were gone over, as they developed, in closest co-operation between President Harding and Secretary Hughes, on the one hand, and with the full Cabinet on the other. For purposes of strict secrecy, the details of the specific naval-limitation program remained the monopoly of a carefully chosen few—not more than eight or ten at the outside, including, of course, the President.

Mr. Harding sent Charles Evans Hughes into the breach, paroled in the unqualified trust that has to be reposed in a field marshal. On November 12 the President went to Continental Memorial Hall, surveyed the impending field of operations, gave the signal for the attack with soldierly brevity and modesty and then left the scene. His field marshal was in charge. Henceforward, as the man on the spot, Hughes was to order American strategy as developments from hour to hour required.

All that does not mean that Harding and Hughes are out of touch—that the Secretary of State has carte blanche to marshal America's forces in the most delicate and difficult diplomatic arena in which American statecraft ever was on trial.

When Harding slipped unobtrusively out of the Conference chamber on the opening day, he left supremely confident that as long as Hughes is on the job, there will be neither occasion nor necessity for the President of the United States to intrude.

CANCER REPORTED TREATED SUCCESSFULLY WITH ALUM.

A claim for the $100,000 prize said to have been offered by the Cosmopolitan Cancer Research Company of Brooklyn for an "authenticated treatment that will at least alleviate cancer if not cure it," has been made in behalf of Dr. Reginald Larkin, of London. Dr. Larkin's theory is that the cancer germ is always found in association with some form of rheumatism and that in internal cases the use of alum will benefit where operations cannot be performed, or following operations.

Dr. Larkin personally had no hand in claiming the American reward. He is exceedingly modest about his work and is loath to discuss it. His most vociferous champion is R. W. Knight, a patient who consulted him when suffering from internal cancer. The presence of a cancer was proven by X-ray plates and specialists suggested an operation. The alum treatment of Dr. Larkin stopped all pain and recent X-ray photographs show no growth whatever.

"I have offered myself as a living example of the efficacy of Dr. Larkin's treatment," said Knight. "I have the original plates showing an internal cancerous growth, and those taken since the treatment where the growth has disappeared, which I am willing to submit."

Dr. Larkin's explanation of his theory and treatment follows: "Since August, 1916, I have been treating with apparent success cases of internal cancer, as diagnosed clinically, as they occurred in general practice. This fact and the contrasted failure of my treatment of many external cases of cancer with the same remedy suggested to me a new clue in the treatment of the disease.

"I believe that carcinoma, almost if not always, is associated with some form of rheumatism, which yields to a course of alum taken internally. These suggestions are placed on record in order that other practitioners may test the simple but effective treatment in inoperable or incurable postoperative cases."

DAYTONA, FLORIDA, ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Some of our readers have spent more or less time at Daytona, Florida, in winter. To all such the following items will be of interest. We clip them from a recent issue of the Daytona Journal:

"The Angler's Club is doing a great work in undertaking the rebuilding of the ocean pier, destroyed in the recent hurricane. Summer and winter the pier is popular, and during each year thousands enjoy going out over the ocean and fishing, or merely watching the wild waves wave.

"It was learned that there was not a box available for rent at the local postoffice. For the middle of November Daytona is sure going some, and it is difficult to realize that there are really more people here right now than there was in January two or three years ago.

"The paving of Daytona's streets will begin in a few days, with Ridgewood Avenue probably the first street to be paved.

"While the street paving is not being done for the amusement of the tourists, but rather for their comfort and convenience, it's a safe bet that hundreds will while away much of their time watching busy gangs of men making Daytona streets perfect.

"Seeing others work is always a pleasure, through some freak of human nature. Few of us like to work hard ourselves, but we will stand around for hours and watch others lay brick, dig holes, crack rock or do other hard work."

CAR OR HOME.

A married couple in Colorado had an argument the other day over the disposition of a sum of money belonging to the wife. The latter wanted to buy a piece of land with it. The husband insisted on taking it and buying an automobile. He insisted so strongly that the woman picked up a revolver and shot him.

It was a rather extreme way to settle an argument. That shot, however, points a moral.

An automobile salesman in another state explains how he happened to go into the business. He had intended starting up in real estate. A friend put this question to him:

"Take a man with money and show him a building lot and an automobile, side by side, and which will he buy?"

"Right-O!" was the quick reply. "He'll buy the automobile."

Tens of thousands of men in this country have been fulfilling that shrewd prophecy. And be it said that in most cases there has been no great harm done. Automobiles are, in the main, good investments, for a family's convenience and health, when the family can afford them. There have been instances, though, when a family would have been immensely better off by doing as the Colorado woman wanted to do, and buying land for a home.

BEAUTY CHATS

RIDGES ON THE NAILS

Finger nails that show a lot of ugly ridges are never pretty. Ridgy nails always look old and overworked and badly cared for. And most women seem to think that nothing can be done about it.

If the nails have been full of ridges for years only a little can be done, but with patience a certain amount of improvement can be expected. However, where the ridges are only just appearing an enormous amount can be done. And when I say "just appearing" I mean when these ridges have not shown themselves for more than eight or ten years.

These ridges can be filed off by using soap and a tiny piece of wet pumice stone. The hands should first of all be washed with hot water, then the pumice stone wet in hot water and covered with soap is rubbed gently back and forth over the top of each little ridge. When the nail is thus softened it does not take long to wear down each ridge, until the surface of the nail is perfectly smooth. It must be done gently because you do not want to wear away the nail but only the ugly ridges.

Do not get discouraged at the scratched surface of your nail. Wash the hands again to remove the soap, then polish with a good polishing powder and a buffer. In a short time all the scratches will have disappeared and you will have a smooth nail with an unusually high gloss.

And that is all there is to the treatment except that as you have tried the nail by using so much pumice the best thing to do after you have polished it smooth is to wash it again to remove the polishing powder, and then to rub it thoroughly with cold cream or olive oil.

Anita—The one piece dress with simple lines will make you appear taller. Never use trimming which cuts up the height and do not wear very short skirts. Massage the ankles and feet, using a strong solution of Epsom salts. Neither a very high, nor a very low heel is a good choice, but one which is between these sizes and broad, will be found best for comfort and service.

Anxious—You are merely unevenly developed, which is often the case with very young girls and a few years more changes all this, when they have completed their growth.

M. P. W. V.—I will be glad to send you a formula for an excellent hair tonic, if you send me a stamped addressed envelope.

Agnes—The recovery from a nervous breakdown is usually slow, but you can help by living out in the air as much as possible. Keeping a cheerful attitude toward it and eating plentifully of simple, and nourishing food. Such a condition is often overcome by sleeping out of doors, especially if the person must be confined during the day.

Mabelle—The yeast recommended is that which comes in cakes and the same as that used in raising dough.

STRIKING.

My nineteen children cry for bread, and I can't even give them hay; I've made their lives a thing of dread, since I have struck for higher pay. I labored at the posthole mills, with many more downtrodden men, and earned enough to pay my bills, and saved some kopecks now and then. Then came a man whose lungs were hale, and showed us we were serfs and slaves; all workmen were martyrs pale, and all employers merely knaves. He told us we would have to strike, if we would have our problems solved; so jobless now we hit the pike—there is a principle involved. There is a principle at stake, or so the gifted spieler said; but oh, it makes my bosom ache, to hear the children cry for bread! I never hear them shout or laugh, I do not see them play or run; the kiddies always get the gruff while great campaigns are lost or won. The children do not seem to care for principles, however high; they ask for warmer things to wear, they weep because there is no pie. Their cheeks grow hollow, day by day, their eyes look old—as old as mine; their lips are pinched and thin and gray—and principles don't seem so fine. There is no juicy roast to carve, the larder holds no tempting cake; the little kids will have to starve, for there's a principle at stake.

SO WEAK SO NERVOUS

How Miserable This Woman Was Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toombsboro, Ga.—"I suffered terribly with backache and headache all the time, was so weak and nervous I didn't know what to do, and could not do my work. My trouble was deficient and irregular periods. I read in the papers what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to give it a trial. I got good results from its use so that I am now able to do my work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. C. F. PHILLIPS, Toombsboro, Ga.

Weak, nervous women make unhappy homes, their condition irritates both husband and children. It has been said that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," irritability and backache arise from some displacement or derangement of a woman's system. Mrs. Phillips' letter clearly shows that no other remedy is so successful in overcoming this condition as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

COACH AT U. OF D. SEVERES RELATIONS

Coach Charley "Pitt" Way, of the University of Dayton and athletic authorities at that school, have severed relations.

Way, who was at the University under a three-year contract to coach all departments of athletics, brings his coaching career to an end at once and will leave the school.

No information has been given out at the University as to the cause of Way's leaving. He has not had much success with his varsity football eleven this fall, the team not winning a game all season so far, but it was generally admitted that the team played in hard luck, because of injuries that kept several regulars out of every game.

Way was a former Penn State gridiron star and came to Dayton to take charge of athletics in September. He has also been playing with the Canton Bull Dogs. In his absence Nelson "Bud" Talbott, former Yale captain and coach of the Dayton Triangles, who coached the university last season, has taken charge of the varsity eleven in preparation for the final game of the season with St. Ignatius of Cleveland in Dayton Saturday.

It is announced that a new athletic instructor will be engaged immediately.

Winter To See More Adjustments In Business and Industrial Conditions of the World

This map, put out by The Nation's Business, official publication of the United States Chamber of Commerce, shows actual business conditions throughout the country in November as seen by Archer Wall Douglas, the noted business authority.

What seems to lie ahead of all forms of distribution is the usual seasonal activity, tempered and modified by changed circumstances, but of somewhat better cheer till the holiday season is over, and then if not a winter of discontent, one of quietude, of preparation for more constructive things during the coming season, and of slow and unceasing adjustment. There will be plenty of barometers to tell the waiting business world the things it wishes to hear, but the best bet is to keep your eye on the ball of the prices of farm commodities and to note what they portend.

The farmer started something when he reverted to elemental principles of barter and began reckoning the value of things he purchased in terms of things he produced. For immediate and salaries have been cut in drastic fashion not experienced by any other industry, since the things he sells constitute entirely the measure of his purchasing power. The only modification to this being that he raises many essentials, mostly food, for his own use, and does so at less cost than consumers, on the whole, obtain them for.

During the past four years, prices of leading agricultural staple crops and livestock have declined from 50 per cent to 80 per cent, corn holding the record, so that now it takes a bushel of corn to buy a collar and three more bushels to purchase a necktie, and a very modest one at that.

If wages and salaries are to be adjusted on a general basis where there is no playing of favorites, then it is obvious that one of two things must happen.

Prices of farm products must go up, and that can be brought about only by the usual operations of supply and demand, and is naturally a long drawn out proposition and one for which no S. O. S. can be satisfactorily replied to. The other, and the one which is slowly and painfully coming to pass, is that the prices of other commodities shall come down to the proportionate level of prices of farm products. This latter process will never reach a complete and entirely equitable basis because selfish human nature plays too large a part in the game. But it will be far better than now far less of a class proposition as was clearly shown in the overwhelming public sentiment on the matter of the threatened railroad strike.

The ultimate yield of the corn crop this year will be a good test of one phase of official forecasts made during the growing season. Those in touch with the actual facts have known all along, that the ears in many sections were poorly filled because of intensely hot, dry weather during the critical time of silking and tasseling. They were also aware that the depredations of the corn borer were greater than ever before. They have consequently a plentiful lack of faith in estimates made from mathematical formulas by those remote from the scene of action, and of the possibility of damage such as I have referred to being even approximately expressed in condition figures refined to dismal fractions.

Matters are mending somewhat on the Pacific Coast and in the extreme northwest as the crops are moving to market. The Imperial Valley is cheered by the advance in cotton as and also the irrigated districts in Arizona, while in the interior of California there are heavy shipments of fruits and nuts not only of holdovers from last season but also of this year's production. Shipments of apples from Idaho, Washington and Oregon are about 200 per cent greater than for the same period last year.

Tobacco production is much below last year as the natural result of the experiences of an oversupply twelve months ago. Exports are heavy but the drastic demand is good only here and there. Growers in North Carolina and Virginia seem to be marketing their crop while in some other southern states farmers are essaying pooling and cooperative methods and with slower sales so far.

There does not any longer seem to be any doubt but that crude oil is definitely on the upturn both as to prices and production, and drilling and "wild catting" have taken on new life. The future of oil in demand is based on too elemental facts to have any question as to what lies before it in the immediate months ahead of us.

Coal mining feels the impulse of colder weather and the insistent demand from those consumers who never learn from experience.

Lumber holds its improvement both in demand and prices, especially in yellow pine districts. Manufacturers of shoes in the west are among the very few who can report that they are actually more business than last year and not have it credited to sunshine propaganda.

One of the most important and interesting phases of modern industrial life is the part played by concrete in every form of construction, buildings, bridges, tiling pavements, foundations, and hard surface highways. In special reference to the latter, and in these days of the automobile and motor truck, it is difficult to see what we would do for a comparatively cheap and practically indestructible highway were it not for concrete. It is a material of humble constituents, sand, gravel slag from the iron furnace, all bound together in indissoluble union with Portland cement. The result is an economical, fire-resistant, permanent building material of wide application that lends itself readily to all manner of artistic, attractive and imposing effects. In its present form and use it is less than a century old and in about fifty years its production in this country has grown from 40,000 to nearly 100,000,000 bags, with still a 30 per cent slack in potential production capacity that has never been taken up.
